

The legal considerations of establishing your overseas operations can cost time as well as money, especially if you have to deal with multiple service providers. Fitzgerald and Law provide access to legal advice as well as accounting, tax and financial services to offer a single source solution tailored to your specific needs.

Legal Advisory

"We're here to help those who are new to foreign territories keep pace with legal requirements and deadlines, alongside their other operational obligations."

Tom Redfern

The differences in working in another country pose more than just monetary issues. When legal considerations arise alongside financial ones, you'll need a lawyer you can depend on to understand your business and to appreciate local issues. Someone with the same objectives to work seamlessly alongside your financial team.

Bringing in new teams can be costly, both in terms of time and money. Even finding someone new can be a massive distraction from your business.

The duplication of meetings, briefings, reviews and opinions from disparate lawyers and accountants can slow down your business and lose you opportunities.

We saw these issues and understood that the only way to overcome them was to unite the legal and financial teams; to partner with a legal firm to offer complementary advice under one roof. It gives our clients complete, comprehensive business advice, managed under a single process.

It's a rare partnership and one that demonstrates the F&L commitment to creating better and more efficient ways for companies to manage their business.
